Laws regarding punitive enforcement

The sources of penology are represented by the penal laws and the principals of criminal trials the development of penal science at the present time had led to the creation of special laws in most countries of the world that explain how to implement punishments , especially the penalties of deprivation of liberty and the death penalty .these laws are known as the penal code and the penal code in a basic part of it, is regulated by rules .the science of punishment approved by the legislator ,and this part is of great importance as it highlights the connection between the science of punishment and the law of punishment. The science of punishment is the source of this part of the rules of the of punishment

If the penal code is concerned with clarifying the types of penalties that are imposed on those who commit a crime then their implementation must be carried out in a way that achieves its purposes .accordingly the method of implementing penalties has become of a great importance because it explains how to rehabilitate and reform the offender

The law also contain texts that clarify the rights and duties of inmates and that it is not permissible to impose any punitive or disciplinary measure on them inside penal institution except after the inmates learns of subsequent violations. these laws also include rules that indicates the method of implementing punishment and punitive treatment inside punitive institutions and outside them that aim to educate and refine the inmate
